

ELDERLY PEOPLE CROSSING
a grey comedy by Frank Hatt

EVERYMAN THEATRE STUDIO
Wed 30 Sept - Sat 3 Oct 2015
www.everymantheatre.org.uk

What's it like to be no longer in the first flush of middle age and suddenly facing life alone? Of course it's painful, but it's got its funny side.

Meet Stella, who's always had husbands and doesn't intend to end up without one. Adam, who can't remember his wife and is desperate to find something that will unlock the memory. Ben, caught in a three-way battle between his prostate, his libido and his conscience. And stoical Dottie, making the best of things and dispensing practical wisdom.

Four fascinating characters who happen to be old, their paths crossing and re-crossing. Grief sometimes seems to have unexpected consequences.

Author Frank Hatt, director Chris Garner and Stroud Theatre Company return to the Everyman Studio five years after their sell-out production of "The Amazing and Preposterous Constance Smedley".